Webinar- Self-Care Isn't Selfish

PO Box 270661

San Diego, CA 92198

12:00 PM - 01:00 PM PST

Description: While working as an attorney can be extremely meaningful and rewarding, the work can also wear one down. Depression, anxiety, and substance abuse plague the profession. Attorneys put everything out there for their clients, often to the detriment to their own mental, emotional, and physical health. In this session, participants will recognize that taking care of their own well-being is not a selfish act but an indispensable part of their duty of competency. Additionally, participants will leave with practical tools to incorporate self-care into their daily lives.

Presenter: Tatiana Kline, Training Attorney with the Office of the State Public Defender

Presenter Bio: Tatiana Kline is a training attorney for the Office of the State Public Defender in California. Prior to that role, she worked as a Deputy Public Defender in San Diego for nearly a decade. Mrs. Kline graduated from the University of San Diego School of Law in 2013 and from the University of Michigan in 2009 with a B.A. in Psychology and a B.A. in English. She served as a Director for the San Diego County Bar Association from January 2022 to May 2024, where she was the co-chair on the Wellness and Anti-Racism subcommittees. Additionally, she is a member of the National Association for Public Defense's Wellness Committee, the Earl B. Gilliam Bar Association, the Criminal Defense Lawyers Club and is a certified instructor for the National Institute of Trial Advocacy. Mrs. Kline finds joy in promoting the health and wellness of everyone she interacts with. After finding herself unhappy, depressed and desperate for change, she started her own journey to find mental wellness, clarity and peace. Mrs. Kline enjoys sharing her journey in hopes that others find comfort and solace in the practices that have tremendously changed her life.
